

Royalties Policy

Where a signed book publication contract stipulates a royalty payable, the following usual terms and conditions apply:

1. The agreed royalty rate per book sold will be outlined in the author's book publishing contract and amounts due will be calculated on November 1 of each year.
2. 'A statement of Sales' will be issued to the author during November of each year (where there are multiple authors this author is deemed to be the 'lead or first author') detailing year to date sales (ie: November to October each year).
3. Royalties will be paid via EFT to the lead author by November 30 of each year.
4. No royalties are payable on discounted book items, nor are royalties paid to authors for books they have purchased themselves or for others below the RRP.
5. Royalty payments may attract taxation considerations in your country / jurisdiction. It is the responsibility of the author to declare all royalties received to such authorities.
6. All royalty quotes are in Australian dollars and will be converted to other currencies on an equivalent basis.
7. Where a contract indicates a royalty to be paid but the stipulated (within a contract) rate is silent in a publishing contract the 'Standard Royalty Rate' applies as outlined below:

Effective from March, 1, 2019.
